Interfaith Action in Global Peacebuilding

2018-2019 IMPACT REPORT

Interfaith Action in Global Peacebuilding

In June 2019, people from the world's religions, spiritual and Indigenous traditions gathered at Stanford University with international peacebuilders and policy makers for a conference hosted by URI to explore interfaith action in global peacebuilding.

From my perspective, the URI conference at Hoover was a great success. The various sessions were interesting – even riveting at times – and the fascinating diversity of URI’s membership was on full display.

Today more than ever, the world needs URI and its constructive approach of bringing together people of different faiths to solve the pressing problems of our day in countries throughout the world. URI’s stunning growth over the past twenty years is testimony to the vision and wholehearted dedication that the founders have given to the organization from its inception.

URI's International Conference held June 26-27, 2019 at Stanford University

400+ Attendees

50+ Speakers

Representing

30+ Countries

15+ Religions or Traditions

6 Continents

"Thank you to URI for what you are doing. I think today if I had that authority, I would've nominated URI for the Nobel Peace Prize."

- H.E. Adama Dieng

REMARKS BY H.E. ADAMA DIENG

Excerpts from H. E. Adama Dieng's Keynote Speech, delivered at URI's Accelerate Peace Conference

At a time when we are seeing a disturbing groundswell of xenophobia, racism, and intolerance, including anti-Semitism, anti-Muslim, hatred and persecution of Christians, I must focus my remarks on the role of religious actors as peacemakers.

This is a time when we need to get together to build peace. It is a time for acceleration, not a time for fueling tension. We need therefore today to make sure that religious leaders and actors engage in strategies aimed to prevent atrocities, crimes and their incitement.

Religious people have more in common than we may think. We must step together to stamp out hatred and the impact it has on societies. We have a responsibility to promote peaceful and inclusive societies where human dignity is respected without discrimination.

It is no surprise that I decided today to become a member of URI. When I retire, I will establish a chapter in my hometown in Senegal where I hope one day we can have a big conference like this one in West Africa.

A Bishop and a General Talk About Peace

SPEAKERS:

General James N. Mattis,

US Marine Corps (retired)

Davies Family Distinguished Fellow at the Hoover Institution

Former United States Secretary of Defense

The Right Rev. William E. Swing,

President and Founding Trustee of URI

Former Episcopal Bishop of California

Theologian Hans Kung wrote, "There will be no peace among nations, without peace among religions." Throughout human history, religion has been used as a motivation and justification for war, while at the same time religion has been used to inspire people to seek peace.

In this session, Bishop William Swing and General James Mattis discussed issues of religion, war and peace.

"I vote for peace. I vote for what you are doing.
I salute what you are doing and I endorse it."

- General James N. Mattis

Call to Action: Revolutionary Love

SPEAKER:

Valarie Kaur,

Founder and Director of the Revolutionary Love Project

Valarie Kaur has become one of the most dynamic leaders in the interfaith movement, challenging us to ground the movement in an ethic of love.

In describing The Revolutionary Love Movement and calling us to action, Valarie Kaur says, "We believe Revolutionary Love is the call of our times. In an era of enormous rage, we must resist dangerous policies and acts of hate that threaten our most vulnerable communities. But resistance alone will not deliver us: we will burn out or even start to mirror the rage we are resisting. So we are staging a cultural intervention to birth a new future. Our mission: to equip our movements and communities with tools to labor in love — love for others, our opponents, and ourselves. When we pour love in these three directions, then love becomes revolutionary."

"Thank you so much to URI, for I believe that the work you do in the world and the work that you have been doing at this convening is of urgent importance."

- Valarie Kaur

Peacebuilding: From Dialogue to Action

MODERATOR

The Rev. Victor H. Kazanjian Jr.,
Executive Director of URI

PANELISTS

The Rev. Jennifer Bailey, Founder and Executive Director of the Faith Matters Network

Radia Bakkouch, President of Coexister, France, a URI Cooperation Circle

Maria Crespo, Director of Cooperation Circle Support, URI

Audrey Kitagawa, JD, Chair of the Board of Trustees of the Parliament of the World's Religions

Phil Lane Jr., Hereditary Chief, Ihanktonwan Dakota and Chickasaw First Nations, URI Trustee

Rabbi Daniel L. Lehmann, President of the Graduate Theological Union

Michael G. Pappas, M.Div., Executive Director of the San Francisco Interfaith Council, a URI Cooperation Circle

"We have to be able to work together, join hands together, because there is no one person, no one government, no one organization that can tackle our global challenges alone."

- Audrey Kitagawa, JD

Two Cooperation Circles - Bulgarian NGO BRIDGES and URI Netherlands - partnered to create a photography exhibition reflecting the search for dialogue between cultures by gathering teenagers of different ethnicities and religious backgrounds, building trust and friendships between participants as the project grew.

Panelists from Peacebuilding: From Dialogue to Action

What is interfaith action? How does interfaith action fit into the larger framework of global peacebuilding? This session explored the field of interfaith peacebuilding and the relationship between interfaith understanding, interfaith dialogue and interfaith action in the global and local peacebuilding process.

Ending Religiously Motivated Violence

VIDEO CASE PRESENTATION:

Countering Violent Extremism in Nigeria

Introduced by Dr. Emmanuel Ivorgba, West Africa Regional Coordinator, URI

MODERATOR:

Prof. Dr. Azza Karam, Senior Advisor at the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA); Chair of the UN Interagency Task Force on Religion

PANELISTS:

Samira Barucija, Co-founder of Youth For Peace, Bosnia and Herzegovina, a URI Cooperation Circle

Mussie Hailu, Former Ambassador, Director of Global Partnerships and Africa Coordinator for URI

Mamoun Khreisat, Middle East and North Africa Regional Coordinator, URI

James Patton, President and CEO of the International Center for Religion & Diplomacy

Musa Sanguila, Director of Pakigdaít, Philippines, a URI Cooperation Circle

Jessica Trubowitch, Director of Public Policy and Community Building at the Jewish Community Relations Council

Janessa Gans Wilder, Founder and CEO of the Euphrates Institute, a URI Cooperation Circle

"A lot of what we see with religion and religiously motivated violence, is really other grievances among the mass of people that get mobilized by an ideologue who comes in and wraps the other grievances in a religious narrative."

- James Patton

Sarvodaya Shanthy Sena, a URI Cooperation Circle and NGO that builds deep relationships with religious leaders of the four major ethnic groups of Sri Lanka, was able to use their influence to bring a fractured community together after a violent attack on a Sinhalese truck driver by Muslim youth, preventing the incident from sparking further violence.

Panelists from Ending Religiously Motivated Violence

Violence in the name of religion has become one of the greatest challenges facing humanity. This session explored how interfaith efforts to confront this challenge are a critical component of the overall effort to counter violent extremism, prevent mass atrocities and genocide, rebuild communities and societies post-conflict, build positive relationships between people of different beliefs and create the conditions that are essential for sustainable peace.

Voices for a World Free of Nuclear Weapons

PANELISTS:

Kehkashan Basu,
Founder President of Green Hope Foundation

Jonathan Granoff,
President of the Global Security Institute

The Right Rev. William E. Swing,
President and Founding Trustee, URI

A CHILD'S PRAYER:

Janessa Gans Wilder,
Founder and CEO of the Euphrates Institute, a URI Cooperation Circle

"Accepting nuclear weapons as the ultimate arbiter of conflict condemns the world to live under a dark cloud of perpetual anxiety."

- Jonathan Granoff

Voices for a World Free of Nuclear Weapons

is a URI Cooperation Circle composed of members from across political, professional, spiritual, and geographical spectra – including the Secretary of State and the Secretary of Defense under Presidents Reagan and Clinton – who have united in a single purpose: to eliminate nuclear weapons.

Panelists and audience from Voices of a World Free of Nuclear Weapons

The capability to destroy all life on our planet has been around for a while. What makes this moment unique is that we have now charted a course that points to an endlessly higher risk. This session, led by Voices for a World Free of Nuclear Weapons, explored how to set a realistic, moral and vital path toward nuclear arms reduction and elimination.

Gathering the World

Women's Empowerment and Environmental Sustainability

SPEAKER:

Sadhvi Bhagawati Saraswati, Secretary-General of the Global Interfaith WASH Alliance (GIWA), and President of the Divine Shakti Foundation

VIDEO CASE PRESENTATION BY:

Amira Diamond, Co-Founder of the Women's Earth Alliance and the Ripple Academy

Melinda Kramer, Founder and Executive Director of the Women's Earth Alliance, Co-Founder of the Ripple Academy

MODERATOR:

Kiran Bali, MBE JP, Chair of the Global Council of Trustees, URI

PANELISTS:

Despina Namwembe, Regional Coordinator for URI-Africa Great Lakes

Swamini Adityananda Saraswati, Director of Programmes, Policy and Development of the Global Interfaith WASH Alliance (GIWA), a URI Cooperation Circle, and URI Trustee

Sofia Painiqueo, Mapuche Indigenous Leader, Founder of the Aflailai Foundation, a URI Cooperation Circle, and URI Trustee

Monica Willard, URI Representative to the United Nations in New York

"Justice for the Earth is justice for women."

- Sadhvi Bhagawati Saraswati

URI Cooperation Circle Quinarao empowers women in the Venezuelan Andes to become financially independent through the manufacture of eco-friendly soap - a factor that helps the women to be treated with more respect by their families and communities as well.

Panelists from Women's Empowerment and Environmental Sustainability

As women's lives and well-being continue to be disproportionately impacted by ongoing violence, injustice and oppression, and as the Earth and her inhabitants suffer from the impacts of environmental degradation, interfaith peacebuilders are engaging these critical issues on a global and local scale.

Global Organizations and Grassroots Partnerships

MODERATOR:

Suzanne Eloise Siskel, Executive Vice President and COO, The Asia Foundation, URI President's Council Member

PANELISTS:

Kate Cumbo, PhD, Executive Director, PeaceJam Foundation

Rabbi Serena Eisenberg, Regional Director, AJC Northern California

Dr. Brian J. Grim, President, Religious Freedom and Business Foundation

Rev. Susan O. Hayward, Senior Advisor, Religion & Inclusive Societies, US Institute of Peace

Aqeela Jogee, Vice President of Programs, Give2Asia

"There's no one solution, whether that's economic or political or social or religious, that's going to solve it."

- Rev. Susan O. Hayward

By fostering partnerships amongst far-reaching members such as the Global Interfaith WASH Alliance in India and Linda Tucker Foundation in South Africa, URI's Environmental Network gives small and large Cooperation Circles the amplified impact of a unified voice, uniting people from all over the world in a passionate effort to protect our shared planet.

Panelists from Global Organizations and Grassroots Partnerships

Too often in the peacebuilding process, a gap exists between global organizations and those at the grassroots engaged in work that seeks to address critical issues including conflict, violence and injustice. This session explored strategies for closing this gap and why global organizations are prioritizing grassroots partnerships.

Valeria Vergani, Director of the Board of the InterSpiritual Sustainability Council of British Columbia, a URI Cooperation Circle, and URI Trustee

"We are living in difficult times, and as young change-makers, my wish is that we all bring interfaith into action."

- Subhi Dhupar

URI Cooperation Circle Camp Anytown Las Vegas gives young people positive experiences of living side-by-side with peers from ethnically and religiously diverse communities. The group brings together Christians and Jews, homeless youth and youth from wealthy families, youth with different skin colors and beliefs, and prepares them for productive life in a multicultural society.

Call-To-Action Storytellers

Responding to the Call to Action through love for others, our opponents and ourselves, these young interfaith leaders weave their stories together - reflecting on their own traditions, on that which calls them to action, and in turn calls us to be interfaith peacebuilders in our communities and in our world.
